Luxembourg	2020	The Centre for Equal Treatment- CET) (Centre pour l'égalité de traitement - CET) (2020). Discrimination Observatory (Observatoire des discriminations) 2020	https://cet.lu/wp-content/uploads/2020/12/Observatoire2020-Rapport-FR.pdf	Discrimination	Luxembourg, Centre for Equal Treatment (CET) (Centre pour l'Egalité de Traitement (CET)	The data is based on the survey conducted in 2020. Overall, 44% of the overall respondents agree that discrimination based on religion and ethnic appearance has increased in the past 5-10 years. 88% of the respondents agree with the statement, saying that " a Muslim family would like to rent accommodation and can pay for it but is rejected because of Muslim origin" - which is a demonstration of a severe form of discrimination on the base of religion/ethnicity.	It is a quantitative study. The interviews were conducted online via TNS Ilres' MyPanel and by telephone. The fieldwork took place from 14 September to 23 September 2020.	The survey was conducted among a representative sample of 1014 residents. The sample was adjusted for to the following variables: ■ Age ■ Sex ■ Region of residence ■ Nationality ■ Professional activity	Not applicable - national level
