Key findings indicate that 33 % of reviewed cases confirmed violations of anti-discrimination legislation, with a marked increase in complaints from Roma individuals and other marginalised groups. The report highlights widespread hate speech, particularly targeting ethnic minorities, including Muslims, as a reflection of societal tensions. It also draws attention to the negative portrayal of these communities in media, which frequently aggravates discrimination and incites hate crimes.	Mixed methods (a combination of qualitative and quantitative approaches): reporting of statistics, such as the number of complaints, decisions, and percentages regarding discrimination cases, as well as thematic analysis of cases and testimonies from individuals affected by discrimination.
