Victim Support Services in the EU: An overview and assessment of victims' rights in practice

Estonia, 2014

FRANET contractor: Estonian Human Rights Centre
Author: Meiorig, M.

DISCLAIMER: This document was commissioned under contract as background material for a comparative analysis by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA) for the project 'Victim Support Services in the EU: An overview and assessment of victims' rights in practice'. The information and views contained in the document do not necessarily reflect the views or the official position of the FRA. The document is made publicly available for transparency and information purposes only and does not constitute legal advice or legal opinion.

1. Part A:

The information presented in this phase is primarily based on analysis of the country specific reports received in phases 1 and 2 of the project; the general overview of the situation of victim support in Member States (phase 1) and the more in depth exploration of the situation, including promising practices which offer support to victims of crime in different ways (phase 2). Information has also been taken from secondary sources such as the 2009 APAV study on Victims in Europe.¹ While phase 2 of the project was divided into two parts, focussing firstly on generic victim support services and secondly on specialised areas of victim support, this third phase of the project, comprised of Parts A and B, will focus principally on the structure or lack thereof of generic victim support services; although a limited number of questions relate to specialised areas of victim support. For this part, please provide detailed, concise answers. For guidance purposes, sample answers are often provided, which primarily draw on information provided in country-specific reports from phases 1 & 2 of the project. When returning your report to the FRA, please ensure that all sample answers have been deleted, as these are for guidance purposes only and should not form part of your response. In addition, in cases where your country is one of the examples provided, please review and revise the information as necessary, as the information provided may be outdated.

2.1 Scenarios ²

In the following situations, please describe the referral system (from police to victim support organisation) in the current victim support structure in your country; including whether police routinely refer the victim to a support service; where is the victim referred and who deals with the case in the end (as a guideline, keep to 2 or 3 sentences (maximum) per question within each scenario. Please choose either 'Yes' or 'No' for questions a. and c. of each scenario, in addition to questions 6-13 and provide comments in the 'Description' field. For questions b and d, please provide your comments directly in the 'Description' field).

	Scenario	Questions	Yes	No	Description (max 1-3 sentences)
1	A female who has been beaten by her partner and calls the police	a. Do the police routinely refer the victim to a support service?	X		The question whether the victim needs support services is part of the standard form that the police officers must fill in when they are called to the scene of violence between partners.
		b. If yes, please name the service(s)	-	-	Depends on the region but mostly referral is to the state victim support officer. When the woman needs shelter, then the referral is to the local shelters run by nongovernmental organisations.
		c. Do the police routinely contact this service on behalf of the victim?	X		Prior consent is needed from the victim. Also the victim himself/herself can contact the services.
		d. Which support service would in the end deal with such a case?	-	-	State victim support officer.

² Scenarios were discussed with several experts over the course of seven interviews

2	A teacher reports the sexual abuse of a child to the police	a. Do the police routinely refer the victim to a support service?	X		Children who have (supposedly) fallen victims to crimes are routinely referred to child protection officials and social workers of the local municipality.
		b. If yes, please name the service(s)	-	-	Child protection officer or social worker of the local municipality.
		c. Do the police contact this service on behalf of the victim?	X		The contact is made without prior consent of the child or a parent, although the parent is usually informed unless the parent is the suspect.
		d. Which support service would in the end deal with such a case?	-	-	Child protection officer or social worker of the local municipality.
3	A person calls the police following a burglary in their apartment	a. Do the police routinely refer the victim to a support service?		X	The police is under legal obligation to introduce victim support services to the victim among other rights the victim has. The victim would receive information on the availability of victim support services. The interviewees demonstrated that emphasis the police puts on victim support services depends on the state the victim is in. The assessment is made based on visual observation.
		b. If yes, please name the service(s)	-	-	State victim support officer.
		c. Do the police contact this service on behalf of the victim?	X		If the victim needs support, the victim can turn to the victim support services himself/herself or the police would contact the victim support officer. In latter case consent is needed from the victim.
		d. Which support service would in the end deal with such a case?	-	-	State victim support officer.
4	A person is the victim of a racist attack by a gang of youths	a. Do the police routinely refer the victim to a support service?		X	It is difficult to assess the police's conduct since such attacks are rare. None of the interviewees had any experience with such situation.
		b. If yes, please name the service(s)	-	-	State victim support officer.

		c. Do the police contact this service on behalf of the victim?	X		Prior consent is needed from the victim. Although such obligation is not prescribed, in practice the police offers assistance in contacting victim support services when necessary. Also the victim himself/herself can contact the service.
		d. Which support service would in the end deal with such a case?	-	-	State victim support officer.
5	An elderly person is mugged on the way home from collecting their monthly pension and is in urgent need of financial assistance	a. Do the police routinely refer the victim to a support service?		X	The police is under legal obligation to introduce victim support services to the victim among other rights the victim has. The victim would receive information on the availability of victim support services. The interviewees demonstrated that emphasis the police puts on victim support services depends on the state the victim is in. The assessment is made based on visual observation.
		b. If yes, please name the service(s)	-	-
		c. Do the police contact this service on behalf of the victim?		X	The person must himself/herself fill in and submit the application for financial support to the local municipality.
		d. Which support service would in the end deal with such a case?	-	-	Social worker of the local municipality.
6a	In relation to how police deal with victims, are there special measures in place for victims with a disability? If yes, describe them. If your answer is no, please provide a justification/explanation.		X		There are no special measures in place for victims with disability. The police follows general rule recognised by the Constitution, ³ the Police and Border Guard Act ⁴ and the Code of Criminal Procedure (kriminaalmenetluse seadustik ; hereinafter as CCP) whereby participants in criminal proceedings must be treated without degradation of their dignity. ⁵

6b	In relation to how victim support services deal with victims, are there special measures in place for victims with a disability? If yes, describe them. If your answer is no, please provide a justification/explanation.		x	The victim support officers are guided by Standards of Services and the opinion is that there is no need for separate guidelines. They have received training on different clients. ⁶
7a	In relation to how police deal with victims, are there special measures in place for victims who are migrants with illegal residency status ⁷ ? If yes, describe them. If no, please provide a justification/explanation.		x	There are no special measures in place for victims who are migrants with illegal residency status. General rules apply. Reference could also be made to the Obligation to Leave and Prohibition on Entry Act concerning illegal immigrants and requiring to take into account the special needs of vulnerable persons. ⁸
7b	In relation to how victim support services deal with victims, are there special measures in place for victims who are migrants with illegal residency status ⁹ ? If yes, describe them. If no, please provide a justification/explanation.		x	The victim support officers are guided by Standards of Services and the opinion is that there is no need for separate guidelines. ¹⁰
7c	Are migrants with illegal residency status excluded from accessing support from victim support organisations in practice?		x	The Victims Support Act (ohvriabi seadus ; hereinafter as VSA) ¹¹ does not exclude irregulars, while compensation is limited to EU citizens and citizens of the signatory states to the respective European Conv (§9).
8	Is access to victim support services dependent on a victim making a formal complaint to competent authorities (e.g. the police)?		x	Only if the victim is applying for compensation from state. ¹² All other services do not require prior formal complaint.
9	In practice, do victim support services afford preferential treatment to victims who have agreed to cooperate with a police investigation into the crime they have experienced (e.g. by dealing with them more rapidly than victims who are not cooperating with a police investigation)?		x	Victim support providers are independent from the police and are not, in practice, influenced by them in this regard. ¹³
10a	In reference to part 'c' of questions 1-5, in the event that police contact victim support services on the victim's behalf, is there an automatic transfer of the victim's data? ¹⁴		x	The standard form that the police officers are filling in on the scene will be transferred to the victim support officers. ¹⁵

10b	If the answer to 10a above is yes, is the police obliged to obtain the victim's permission/consent for the data transfer?	x	According to the Personal Data Protection Act (isikuandmete kaitse seadus , PDPA), ¹⁶ the processor of personal data, eg. the police, must ask permission when data is processed, including disclosed (§§10-12).
10c	Is there a legal basis for the communication/transfer of the victim's data? What is it?	x	Paragraphs 10-12 of PDPA regulate the obligation to ask for a consent for the transfer of delicate personal data and the transfer itself. Specific guidelines also stipulate the more detailed rules on what and how to transfer. ¹⁷

2.2 Institutional aspects: role of state in victim support structure

In the following section, please complete/verify the information requested in the following tables, placing your country in the appropriate category, or, where information is provided, checking the accuracy of the information and revising as necessary (i.e. by moving your country name from the incorrect column to the correct column along with a justification).

2.2.1 Models of generic victim support

Generic victim support organisations are for the present purposes defined as “not limited to helping a particular type of victim of crime”. With the above definition in mind, please:

a) Review the list and short description of structure of generic victim support organisations operational in your country provided for in Annex 2 and edit as necessary, ensuring that all significant victim support providers (especially those operating at national level) are mentioned. Countries listed in Annex 2 shaded in green (and in category ‘A’ below) have been identified (on the basis of country reports submitted for phases 1 & 2 of the project) as not having any generic victim support organisations. These countries should provide a short list (in Annex 2) of the main organisation(s) providing victim support in one of the two specialised areas of victim support focused on in the phase 2 country report (see annex 3 for a list). As a default, please select the area ‘Domestic violence and stalking’.

b) Place your country in one of the following categories (A, B, C, D or E) and provide an explanation about why your country should be placed in that group. For each group, one example has been provided for guidance purposes. If your country is one of the examples provided, please review and revise the information as necessary, placing your country in a different group if the information provided is incorrect. Please delete all examples from your response and insert your country name in only ONE column. (Note: only country codes are listed. For full country names, please refer to Annex 1).

	The state along with the local governments act as the main general service provider for victims of crimes. The regional offices of state service provide information on the available services and assistance. There is only one non-governmental organisation, Union of Support to Victims of Crime NGO "Victim Support" (kuriteohvrite toetamise ühing MTÜ "Ohvriabi") providing general victims support services but their activity has been very limited in recent years (mostly limited to online-services).

2.2.2 Public coordination of victim support services

Please answer the following questions by completing the tables. Two examples have been provided (for questions 1 & 2) for guidance purposes. Please delete all examples from your response and insert your country name in only ONE column. If your country is one of the examples provided, please review and revise the information as necessary. Please provide references to the full name of the Ministry or body in question in both English and the national language (Note: only country codes are listed. For full country names, please refer to Annex 1).

1. Please specify (by placing an 'X' in the relevant columns) which ministry or ministries have a role in victim support provision. In addition, please provide a short explanation in the comments field.
	Ministry of Justice	Ministry of Health	Ministry of Labour/Social Affairs	Ministry of Interior/	Any other	COMMENTS

EE	X		X			The Ministry of Justice (Justiitsministeerium) is responsible for the legal regulation of the victim support system. Provision of victim support services, however, is within the competence of the Ministry of Social Affairs (Sotsiaalministeerium).
2. Please provide a short description of which body (e.g. ministry, office for victims of crime, commission or any other body) has the overall or principal coordinating role in organising victim support services at national and federal level. If no one ministry or body has such a role, please provide an explanation/ justification.
EE	Ministry of Social Affairs is the coordinating body for the network of cooperation in this area, which is composed of state, local government and non-governmental actors. The state institution that is the direct provider of victim support services is the Social Insurance Board (Sotsiaalkindlustusamet) and more particularly its Victim Support Department.
3. What is the legal basis for the type of victim support model that exists in your country (e.g. is it stipulated somewhere in a legal instrument that victim support services be state-run; state-funded etc.?)
EE	Victim support model is based on the VSA. The victim support services are funded directly from the state budget and from the compensations recovered from the convicted persons (VSA § 32).

2.2.3 Funding:¹⁸

Please answer the following questions by completing the tables. Please note that countries that do not have generic victim support service providers (i.e. that fall within category 'A' under question 2.2.2) should not answer questions c & e. For questions g-k, if your country does not have a generic victim support structure in place, please respond to the question with respect to a specialised area of victim support. Please select one of the two specialised areas of victim support you focused on in your phase 2 country report to the FRA (see annex 3 for a list). As a default, please select the area 'Domestic violence and stalking'. If you choose to take another area, provide a short justification for why you have chosen that area.

Important for all: Whether you answer questions g-k with respect to an organisation providing generic victim support or an organisation providing specialised victim support, please choose the biggest organisation (in terms of the organisation that receives most funding, helps most victims nationwide etc.).

For the year 2012, please specify the exact amount of funding:		Amount (in EURO)
a Budgeted by the state for compensation		263,171
b Paid out by the state for compensation		266,981.70
c Budgeted by the state for generic victim support services (i.e. services not restricted to a particular category or categories of victims)		The budget of the Social Insurance Board does not bring out the direct costs of the victim support services specifically.
d Budgeted by the state for specialised victim support services (i.e. services restricted to a particular category or categories of victims; such as child victims or victims of human trafficking). In addition, please name the specialised victim support services that received state funding.		Victims of human trafficking: 95,867

More specifically, is a difference made between reimbursement for support provided to a) country nationals; b) EU country nationals and c) third country nationals?	X
j Further to question i, is the organisation reimbursed for providing support to victims with illegal residency status? Please provide a short explanation under 'comments'.	X
k Are there any factors that would discourage the victim support organisation in practice from supporting third country nationals? Please specify under comments.		X	No financial impediments.

2.2.4 Capacity: ¹⁹

For the year 2012, please specify the number of victims of crime that:	No of persons:
a Applied for compensation from state sources.	391
b Received compensation from state sources.	391
c Approached generic victim support services (i.e. services not restricted to a particular category or categories of victims)	4510
d Approached specialised victim support services (i.e. services restricted to a particular category or categories of victims)	The state only provides generic victim support services.

2.2.5 Official/academic studies on victims

Have any official or academic studies been published in your country in the last 5 years on the following (note: please provide a full reference for the study (following the FRA style guidelines) and provide a link if available online):

Various official resources and legal, economic and sociological literature and statistics were used, in addition to that when possible interviews were conducted. Estonia is mainly a source country of human trafficking for forced labour and labour exploitation. To a lesser extent, Estonia is also a destination country for migrants coming from former republics of Soviet Union. At the time of the making of the survey Estonia lacked legislation specifically created for combating human trafficking and this made the mapping of the issue specially complicated, only one victim was interviewed and from this interview it came clear that his/her situation was characterized by shame, confusion and little hope for improvement. (c) In general the victims and witnesses are content with the work of the investigative bodies, however they tend to lack the necessary knowledge of their procedural rights and the course of the proceedings. The survey itself is not very voluminous but some of the conclusions should be highlighted: when working on cases involving domestic violence the police initiates proceedings more often in the southern districts than in northern districts, also restraining orders are applied more often in the south. 2.3 Victim Helplines

Please complete the information in the following table, providing details on whether the country has a national victim support helpline, who funds it, operates it etc. Where the answer is 'no', please provide a short justification or explanation of the situation in the comments field. For example, for question 3, if the helpline does not operate 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, place an X in the 'No' column and specify the operating hours under 'Comments'. Where 'Yes' or 'No' answers are not applicable (i.e. questions 9-15), please answer the question directly in the 'Comments' field. Please provide information for 2012. Where this is not possible, please provide a justification and give data for the latest year possible.

2.4 Obligation of police to provide information

		Yes	No	Comments (max 2-3 sentences)
1	Are police legally obliged to provide all victims with information concerning victim support services? If yes, what is the legal basis for this obligation (e.g. name of the law)?	X		VSA § 33 obliges preliminary investigation authorities to provide information regarding the content of the VSA. CCP also requires that an “investigative body or a Prosecutor’s Office shall explain to the victim his or her s rights, the procedure for filing a civil action, essential requirements for a civil action, term for filing a civil action and the consequences of allowing such term to expire, and the conditions and procedure for receipt of legal aid ensured by the state” (§38(4)).
2	Are police legally obliged to provide all victims with information concerning compensation? If yes, what is the legal basis for this obligation (e.g. name of the law)?	X		See above.

3	Are police legally obliged to provide all victims with information concerning their rights and role in criminal proceedings? If yes, what is the legal basis for this obligation (e.g. name of the law)?	X		This obligation is stipulated in point 1 of § 8 of CCP: “in the performance of a procedural act in the cases provided by law, explain to the participants in the proceeding the objective of the act and the rights and obligations of the participants.”
4	Are victims who do not understand or speak the language provided with free of charge interpretation in the language of their choice (e.g. during any interviews or questioning of the victim by the police)	X		CCP § 10 foresees the right of the participant in criminal proceedings and the party to the court proceedings the right to interpreter or translator. This, in principle, also includes the victims. However, with the consent of all relevant persons “the criminal proceedings may be conducted in another language if the body, participants and parties are proficient in such language.”

7	Please briefly list any other category of officials coming into contact with victims that receive systematic training on how to deal with victims of crime (e.g. lawyers, restorative justice services etc.)	NA	NA	No systematic training to other officials, but there have been trainings for border guard officers, consular officers, psychiatrists, psychologists, youth workers, social workers, child protection officers, probation officers and teachers. ⁴⁰

2.6 Rights of victims in criminal proceedings

Please complete the information in the following tables, choosing 'Yes' or 'No' and providing a short explanation or justification for each answer. In cases where your country has already been placed in a particular category as an example, check that the category your country has been placed in (i.e. 'Yes' or 'No') is accurate and revise if necessary.

2.6.1 Definition of victim

Please provide a definition of the term victim in your country:

	Description	Explanation (max word count 200)
1	What is the main or generic legal definition of the term 'victim' (as provided for in national legislation)?	Victims as defined by the VSA do not have to be victims according to the CCP (§37). According to VSA the definition covers those who have suffered injury of any kind due to negligence, mistreatment or physical, mental or sexual abuse. In the context of criminal procedure, the term stands for the status in the proceedings regardless of whether an actual offence has been committed, this includes victims of attempted crimes. In brief, VSA sets an injury as an essential component of the term and provides a material definition, meanwhile CCrP requires a criminal offence or an unlawful act committed by a person not capable of guilt (CCrP § 7) and ongoing or terminated criminal proceedings. Both terms include victims of any type of crime.

2	Is there a separate definition of 'vulnerable victims' (as separate from the main or generic definition of 'victim')?	The term vulnerable victim has not been introduced in Estonian legislation, but there are certain groups of victims like minors or minors or those who are in need of witness protection (see 2.6.3) who receive special treatment during the proceedings.
3	Are parents, children, other family members, same sex partner & first responders included under the main definition of the term victim? If not, are they included as 'indirect' victims or similar?	There is no generic definition of a victim other than the direct victim of the crime. However, VSA does provide a close or a dependant with the right to receive monetary compensation in case of death of the direct victim, besides that family members are entitled to compensation of funeral or medication expenses. VSA does not exclude any of these people from receiving non-monetary services. For example, the family member may apply for the compensation of psychological assistance (§6 ¹) and the dependant of the victim may apply for a compensation for the damages caused by crime if the direct victim has lost his/her life (§9(3)). Though not considered a victim in the sense of VSA or CCP, a family member is entitled to compensation of moral damages arising from the death of or a serious bodily injury or health damage of the direct victim under the Law of Obligations Act (§134(3)). This right can be exercised by filing a civil claim.

2.6.2. Decision not to prosecute

With regard to victims' rights to review a decision not to prosecute, please answer the following:

	Yes	No	Comments (Max word count 80 words)
If the prosecutor decides to discontinue a case, does the victim have the right to file for a review of the decision not to prosecute?	X		According to the CCP, the victim has the right to contest the refusal to commence or the decision to terminate criminal proceedings (see CCP §§ 38, 207).
Who undertakes this review?	NA	NA	At first an appeal is filed to the Prosecutor's Office. In case the latter dismisses the appeal, the victim can turn to the circuit court and apply for review (CCP §§ 207-208). If the court upholds the decision of the Public Prosecutor, this is final and not subject to any remedy.
Does the victim have the right to institute private prosecution in cases where the prosecutor drops charges? If yes, under what circumstances?		X	CCP does not provide the possibility to institute private prosecution or act as a substitute private prosecutor.
Does the prosecutor's office have a dedicated hotline or mechanism whereby victims can inquire about the progress of a case?		X	There is no special hotline service arranged for victims. The victims must call directly to the Prosecutor responsible for the case.

2.6.3. Right to be heard

Please complete the information in the following tables, choosing 'Yes' or 'No' and providing a short explanation or justification for each answer. Some examples have been provided.

EXAMPLE: Germany	Yes	No	Comments (Max word count 80 words)
------------------	-----	----	------------------------------------

Do victims have a right to be heard during criminal proceedings?	X	The right to be heard during pre-trial and court proceedings is set forth among other procedural rights in CCP §38.
Do victims have a right to supply evidence during criminal proceedings?	X	Such right is provided by CCP §38(4) and can be exercised both during the pre-trial and court proceedings.
Is there a right for vulnerable victims to be questioned & testify in court in a protected manner – e.g. are screens in place when victims testify/video link available or other measures to separate victim from accused? Please specify whether this applies to all victims or just certain categories of victims (please specify):	X	Pursuant to CCP §69 “A body conducting the proceedings may organise telehearing of a witness if the direct hearing of the witness is complicated or involves excessive costs or if it is necessary to protect the witness or the victim.” The term telehearing covers hearings conducted by phone or broadcasted to the courtroom by means of some other technical solution. The consent of the accused is necessary, except when the witness or victim remains anonymous. Telehearings are recorded and minutes are kept. In practice such measures are most often used when hearing children. The court may accept deposited testimony given by the victim among other grounds when he or she refuses to appear in court or is unable to give testimony due to his/her health condition (CCP §291). Again there are specifications concerning the hearings of minors, their testimony is video recorded and can be accepted as evidence either when the child is under 10 years of age, the case involves delicate matters such as domestic violence or sexual abuse and the child is upto 14 or when he or she suffers from speech impairments, sensory or learning disabilities or mental disorders. According to CCP §287(4), the court may use a partition to hide the witness from the accused either at the request of a party or on its own initiative.

2.6.4 Rights of victims at trial

The International Criminal Court (ICC) has created a special unit for victims and witness to provide support before, during and after the trial. Services are delivered by professionals who are often salaried employees of the court, and includes persons with expertise in trauma, including trauma from sexual violence. When providing testimony victims may also have support from family members, psychologists or legal representatives. These specialists are also able to advise prosecutors on appropriate security arrangements for victims and the court must take measures to protect the safety, physical and psychological well-being, dignity and privacy of victims. The statute allows for identities not to be made public, testimony to be provided by electronic means and the hearing to be confidential. The statute also calls for the court to establish principles relating to “reparations to victims, including restitution, compensation and rehabilitation” and to establish a trust fund which “works for victims by mobilizing people, funding opportunities for the benefit of victims and implementing court-ordered reparations awards.”

With the example of the ICC special victims’ unit in mind, please answer the following questions, choosing ‘yes’ or ‘no’ and providing a short description. If the answer is no, please provide a justification. Where ‘Yes’ or ‘No’ answers are not applicable (i.e. questions 2-4), ‘NA’ has been inserted. In these cases, please answer the question directly in the ‘Description/justification’ field.

		Yes	No	Description/justification (max 1-3 sentences)
1	Looking at your own criminal court system, is there a special unit or service for victims of crime providing support?		X	It is usually the out-of-court victim support official that accompanies and assists the victim. It is suitable as well to have the same person assisting the victim from the very start. ⁴¹
2	Is there a separate waiting area for victims at court?		X	All the interviewees noted the absence of a separate waiting area. They have simply led the victim as far away from the perpetrator as possible. ⁴²
3	Is special seating reserved for victims at trial?		X	All the interviewees noted the absence of reserved seating. Some of them stated that when necessary they or, in case of minors, victim's parents have physically stood in between the victim and the perpetrator. ⁴³
4	What other services are available?	NA	NA	Telehearing (CCP §69), deposited testimony (CCP §291), screens (CCP §287(4)).
5	Who provides the services (e.g. professional or specialised staff; volunteers etc)?	NA	NA	There are no victim support services in courts.
6	In reference to question 5, do the service providers provide advice to prosecutors with respect to the the safety, physical and psychological well-being, dignity and privacy of victims?	NA	NA	There are no victim support services in courts.
7	Do they provide advice to judges with respect to the the safety, physical and psychological well-being, dignity and privacy of victims?	NA	NA	There are no victim support services in courts.
8	Are the rights and protections that should be afforded to victims mentioned in the founding law (e.g. a statute) establishing the court?	X		The need to respect the rights and interests of the victims is stipulated in the CCP (e.g. §11 on public nature of the court session). The rights of the victim are listed in detail in §38.
9	Do victims have the right to be accompanied by support persons during the trial?	X		CCP does not explicitly provide such right with the exception of a minor. CCP expressly provides the court with the opportunity to involve a child protection services, social worker, pedagogue or a psychologist when a minor is questioned (§290).
10	Can victims access & copy trial records?	X		Victims have the right to access trial records pursuant to CCP §38 in conjunction with §224. Pursuant to the latter they also have the right

2.7 Compensation

Please complete the information in the following tables, choosing 'Yes' or 'No' and providing a short explanation or justification for each answer: e.g. for question 2.7 (2), please select 'Yes' or 'No' and under comments, specify what measures victims can ask for during criminal proceedings. In cases where your country has already been placed in a particular category as an example, check that the category your country has been placed in (i.e. 'Yes' or 'No') is accurate and revise if necessary; i.e. by moving your country from the 'Yes' column to the 'No' column and vice versa.

	Victims' rights with regard to compensation	Yes	No	Comments and sources (max 2-3 sentences)
1	Do victims have the right to ask for compensation during criminal proceedings?	X		The victim has the right to file a civil claim during the criminal proceedings (CCP §§38, 225). Alternatively, he or she is entitled to compensation paid by state according to the VSA, once he or she has reported the criminal offence to the police.
2	Aside from compensation, do victims have the right to ask for other measures during criminal proceedings (e.g. return of property, reimbursement of expenses, measures for physical protection)?	X		The expenses that the victim has bore due to the ongoing proceedings are compensated by the state (CCP §178). Financial claims against the accused or a third person are solved as part of civil proceedings. The victim has the rights to request application of restraining order (CCP §§ 38, 310(1)). The victim also has the right to apply for the hearing being conducted via telephone or video-conference. When there is an actual danger of falling under unlawful influence or risking his/her health or property interests, a victim is entitled to the measures provided in the Witness Protection Act (tunnistajakaitse seadus), ⁴⁸ incl. physical protection of the protected person and his or her property, secret relocation, creation of new identity etc (incomprehensive list of measures can be found in (§18).
3	Is compensation paid by the offender?	X		The victim may ask for compensation from the offender by way of civil proceedings (CCP §§ 38, 225). In addition, the offender is obliged to pay compensation levies, which are transferred in public revenues. The compensation levies are about procedural costs of the criminal court proceedings ⁴⁹ and are

4	Is there such thing as a 'victims of crime fund' that convicted persons must contribute to?		X	The state victim support services are, at least partly, financed based on the levies paid by the offender (VSA § 32 (2)) but their main purpose is to compensate at least part of the procedural costs.
5	Does compensation paid by the offender under a 'victims of crime fund' go towards victim support services?		X	See the comment above.
6	Is compensation paid by the state?	X		Compensation payable under VSA is paid by the state. The state has the right of recourse from the person responsible for damages (VSA §31).
7	Will the State advance payment of the compensation if the offender does not pay? Under which conditions?		X	No, if compensation was applied for by way of civil proceedings, it is collected pursuant to the Code of Enforcement Procedure (täitemenetluse seadustik ; hereinafter as CEP), ⁵⁰ enforcement proceedings are conducted pursuant to a court judgment which has entered into force and has been sent to a bailiff for enforcement (see CEP §§ 210, 204).
8	Does a compensation order exist?		X	Offender pays compensation or levy in accordance with the court judgment, which also includes a calculation of the compensation or levy to be paid.

13	Is there a limit from the time of the crime within which claims for compensation would have to be made? If yes, what is the time limit?	X		According to VSA, an application for compensation must be submitted within one year from the commission of the crime or the date of death of the victim. A civil claim based on CCP can be submitted during criminal proceedings within 10 days from the date of submission of the criminal file to the participants for examination. After that an action can be filed in a separate civil procedure (CCP §225). The statute of limitation for such claim is 3 years as of the moment when the entitled person became or should have become aware of the damage and of the person obligated to compensate for the damage (General Part of the Civil Code Act – Tsiviilseadustiku üldosa seadus –, §150). ⁵¹
14	Do third country nationals have the right to apply for compensation?	X		Provided the criteria set in VSA §9(2) is met, according to which he or she must either reside in Estonia on the basis of a residence permit or right of residence of a long-term resident or a temporary residence permit or right of residence or be an EU citizen or a citizen of a state which is a party to the European Convention on Compensation of Victims of Violent Crimes or be a person enjoying international protection staying in Estonia. A third country national has the right to file a civil claim based on CCP on equal conditions with Estonian nationals.

If the person is an EU citizen or a citizen of a state which is a party to the European Convention on Compensation of Victims of Violent Crimes, the legality of his or her status is irrelevant.
16	Are there exceptions prescribed in law for different types of crimes? If yes, what are they?	X		The limitation period of first degree crimes is 10 and of second degree crimes 5 years, a judgement cannot be executed when respectively 5 or 3 years have passed from the entry into force of the judgement (Penal Code §§ 81-82) ⁵² . Only victims of crimes of violence are entitled to compensation pursuant to VSA §7. The compensation levies paid upon conviction in first degree crime is 2,5 times the amount of the minimum monthly wage, while in case of conviction in second degree crime it is 1,5 times the same amount (CCP §179).

2.8 Cross border support

Please complete the information in the following tables, choosing 'Yes' or 'No' and providing a short explanation or justification for each answer. Where 'Yes' or 'No' answers are not applicable (i.e. questions 9-12), please place your answer directly in the 'Description' field.

	Victims' rights with regard to cross border support	Yes	No	Description (max 2-3 sentences per question)
1	Is there a formal system of cross-border referral of victims (to a victim support organisation in the state in which the victim lives) when the victim who has approached the VSO or competent authority is resident in another state? 2.9. The role of volunteerism in victim support

From the research carried out in phases 1 & 2, one of the most striking features of the more robust generic victim support systems in Europe is the crucial role played by volunteers.

- a. With this in mind, please provide an overview (max 500 words) of the tradition of volunteerism in the area of the victim of support in your country; i.e. outlining whether such a culture exists, what is the historical background for why it does or does not exist; how is the situation changing and focusing on any discernible trends; explaining also the typical profile of volunteers who work in the field - e.g. well educated? Professional background - working in a particular field (e.g. legal, social work); typical tasks? (E.g. provision of legal/psychological advice? Or restricted to informing victims of rights etc.). How many hours a week do volunteers typically give of their time? Are numbers of volunteers increasing or decreasing?

The state victim support service does not use volunteers, although the legislation does foresee such possibility. According to the victim support officers interviewed, there used to be volunteers in the early years when the Victim Support Act was adopted in 2003.⁶⁰ The volunteers were trained along with the officers but no new volunteers were recruited. It was suggested by one of the interviewees that there is no need for volunteers in the state victim support system, since there are enough non-governmental organisations to provide the assistance.⁶¹

Non-governmental organisations, on the other hand, rely heavily on volunteer work, some organisations more than others. Their role and the reasons for using volunteer work differs from organisation to organisation. For example, the representative of the Estonian Women's Shelters Union (EWSU, Eesti Varjupaikade Liit) stated that the number of volunteers in EWSU itself and its member organisations depends on the funding from the state. Occasionally, people need to work for free.⁶² On the other hand, the Living for Tomorrow (LFT) does have the occasional volunteer (2-3 persons per year) but only in a limited capacity and mostly in order to get a fresh perspective, rather than to compensate lack of funding.⁶³ The Eluliin, offering also nightline service, is composed mostly of volunteers and has been so from the beginning.

Typical tasks of the volunteers also depend on the dependency of the organisation on volunteer work. For example, EWSU stated that volunteers in women's shelters do everything, starting from answering telephone, providing psychological, social and legal counselling, doing awareness raising activities and communication work. This also means that their working hours amount up to 60 hours per month. In the Eluliin, counselling is also offered by the volunteers, while in LFT, volunteers are not allowed to counsel but rather checking contacts, compiling responses to e-mails, helping to compile different materials. Their working hours in LFT are thus also in average up to 4 hours per week.

The typical volunteer is a woman, positive, enthusiastic and empathic. In EWSU and its member organisations where they have a major role, volunteers are also more stress-resistant. While in EWSU, the age of volunteers varies, in LFT the volunteer is mostly 20-25 years, university students studying youth work or social work. In shelters the volunteers have varying education but they all have flexible work or studying hours to allow them to work in the shelter.

- b. If there is no tradition of volunteerism in the area of the victim of support in your country, please outline (in max 500 words) any recent initiatives or attempts in the area of victim support to encourage a greater culture of volunteerism.

The question is not applicable as in Estonia, there is a tradition of volunteerism in the area of victim support.

2.10. The tradition of social work

In max 400 words, please provide an overview of whether there is a tradition of social work in your country, and if so, in what way (if any) is it linked to the victim support services structure in your country. In your answer, please include the level of education of a typical social worker (e.g. is university or third level education necessary?).

Estonia has a long-running tradition of social work. The social care system started to develop already in the beginning of the Estonia's independence in 1918. In 1925, the first professional trainings were conducted for social workers after the adoption of the Social Care Act (hoolekandeseadus).⁶⁴ Social care continued through the Soviet occupation from 1940-1991. Currently, social care is organised by the local authority and not the state,⁶⁵ although the state has adopted the relevant legislation.

Social workers are directly connected to victim support. First, they have close cooperation with the police and state's victim support officers.⁶⁶ Second, social workers or child protection officers are the persons the police turns to when the victim is a minor.⁶⁷ Third, social workers can assist the victim in applying for several services and compensations from the local authority, e.g. emergency financial assistance, housing, different social care etc.⁶⁸

According to the information provided by the Ministry of Social Affairs, the majority of the social workers (60%) have higher degree in social work.⁶⁹

2.11. Promising practices in the area of victim support

From the following list of promising practices (detailed explanations found under Annex 1), please identify whether there is a similar practice in your country (yes or no) and provide a brief explanation/description. If you have identified other promising practices not similar to the ones presented here, please provide details under '16' – 'Other promising practices'.

	Promising practice	Does a similar practice exist in your country?		Short description of the practice in your country, outlining similarities; differences etc. If there is no such practice, please provide a justification for this (e.g. this is not an issue; it is dealt with in other ways; it is a gap that still needs to be addressed)

2	Assistance to tourist victims of crime: e.g. In Ireland , the Irish Tourist Assistance Service (ITAS) is specialist service offering immediate support and assistance to tourists who are victimised while visiting Ireland. 3	Schemes for compensatory fines to help fund support services: In addition to other funding sources, several EU Member States generate money for generic victim support services through a 'Victims of Crime fund' or the like, whereby persons convicted of an offence pay a fine to help the funding of services for victims of crime (for example, in BE, LT, NL, PL & SE).	X	Convicted criminals are obliged to pay compensation levies, which are transferred to public revenues and the state's victim support services are partly funded by those levies. (VSA §32(2), CCP §§ 38, 225)
5	In some countries, victims can be accompanied in court by victim support services, ensuring a fuller realisation of victims' rights and helping to prevent secondary victimisation.	X	Victim support officers and NGO workers regularly accompany victims to court. ⁷⁰
6	In some countries, victims are provided with free psychosocial and legal assistance throughout the entire criminal proceedings.	X	Victims can get free initial legal advice throughout the entire criminal proceedings from the victim support services. Further legal assistance could be received through state legal aid, which is subject to an economic 'means test' (State Legal Aid Act §6). VSA foresees compensation for psychological care but only in an amount equal to up to one minimum monthly wage (currently 320 euros) (§6 ¹).
7	Some countries have legal clinics that provide free legal assistance to victims of crime.	X	It is a gap that still needs to be addressed. There are general legal clinics by law students, none of them specialise in victims of crime.
8	Some countries are exploring new and innovative ways of disseminating information to victims of crime in the form of web-based material, using social media and e-support etc. e.g. In SE, the Crime Victim Compensation and Support Authority initiated web-based information site called the Trial School which uses narrators' voices, texts, photographs, films and 3D animations to explain what happens at a court trial. Victim Support Finland (RIKU) operates a mobile phone service providing advice to crime victims through automatic text messages, while in NL; the Victim Support fund has a website and a smart phone app to guide victims to support organisations.	X	It is a gap that still needs to be addressed. Information is mainly provided through traditional use of websites.
9	Some countries have created a 'Victim's Charter' which, not a legally binding document in itself, rather aims to describe the criminal justice system to a victim of crime, setting out victims' rights and providing clear information in relation to various aspects of criminal proceedings, state agencies, victim support organisations etc. (e.g. what happens when a crime is reported; what to expect	X	State victim support services produce brochures, which state the minimum information on what to do and where to turn. ⁷¹ However, the information is minimal.

10	In SE referral from the police works effectively since several local BOJ victim support services operate on the same premises as the local police station which also is seen as a way to quickly identify victims. All police districts, in over 100 districts around Sweden, have a Crime Victim Emergency Service. People who have training in and experience of the issues faced by victims of crime are available at these offices.	X		Most of the state victim support services are situation in police stations. The direction for the future is to move all the state victim support services to police stations. ⁷²
11	The multi-disciplinary, national referral system introduced in Bulgaria with regard to trafficking might be considered a promising practice.	X		Cooperation network of specialists, which was created as one of the activities in the Development Plan for Combating Trafficking in Human Beings 2006–2009 but is still ongoing. The network's aim was to facilitate better cooperation between people who work in the field and to make the implementation of the Development Plan more effective. The network included representatives from relevant non-governmental organisations, ministries, the Prosecutor's Office, the Police and Border Guard Board, the Tax and Customs Board and other state institutions. ⁷³
12	As part of the National Social Roma Inclusion Strategy in HU, Roma victim support volunteers are recruited to work in the volunteer support network. There is also a network of on-site legal aid stations led by an active member of the local Roma community, while the attorneys of the organisation are available online and provide free legal advice via Skype. Their area of operation also includes legal support to victims of hate crime.		X	It is a gap that still needs to be addressed.
13	Police forces in England and Wales have policies on dealing with repeat victimisation. An example of such a policy is the Thames Valley Police policy on repeat victimisation (drafted and audited in accordance with Human Rights Act 1998): Sample Extract from the policy: 1. 14	Many countries have practices in place to respect the rights of victims during court proceedings, particularly with regard to their rights to privacy and protection; e.g. the trial being conducted behind closed doors; witness' testimony being taken so they do not come into contact with accused (e.g. in SI, taking of testimony using technical devices (protective screen, voice disguising devices, transmission of sound from separate premises and other similar technical devices); ban on use of images related to the victimisation; other measures undertaken by judges or prosecutors (or jury?) in respect of victims' rights? 2.12 Role of the victim in practice

When it comes to perceiving or conceptualising victims of crime, certain ideal types or models can be distinguished. Based on your research and responses so far, please choose one from the following 4 descriptions of the role of the victim in the criminal justice system of your country (if possible indicating the most common view of legal practitioners (judges, prosecutors, lawyers) in your country. (If you believe that there are different perceptions of victims depending on various types of criminal offences, please consider cases of violent crimes.):

			interviewed as to how they saw the system viewing the victim. ⁷⁶ Victim support officers (who were mostly from rural areas) saw the victim's role in a more positive light (saying that the victim is also seen as having role 2 and even role 3) while representatives of NGOs and one police officer (all of whom are working in the capital city) were very critical as to how the victim is seen in the criminal justice system (saying that the victim is only seen as having role 1). It is the way victims are seen to be treated rather than how the system intends the victims to be treated.
2	In addition to 1, if the victim has suffered damage as a consequence of a criminal offence, importance is attributed to allowing the victim to claim compensation within the framework of criminal proceedings.
3	In addition to 1 or 2, the victim is seen as a person who has suffered moral harm and therefore is in need and deserving of help.
4	In addition to 1, 2 & 3, the victim is perceived as a person whose rights have been violated by the criminal offence and who therefore is entitled to see that justice is done and, to that end, to participate in criminal proceedings.
In the new EU Victims' Directive, the Commission refers to the varying roles of victims in criminal proceedings in each Member State as being determined by one of the following criteria. ⁷⁷ With regard to the following descriptions, please choose 'yes' or 'no' for each concerning the role of the victim in the criminal justice system of your country, and provide a short explanation.

2 Part B:

3.1 Establishment of generic victim support organisations*⁷⁸

3.1.1 Please outline who (i.e. state or non-state actor) took the initiative for first setting up victim support services.

Victim support in Estonia originates from non-governmental sector. The first organisation providing support for victims was the citizen-initiated Union of Support to Victims of Crime "Victim Support" (Kuriteoohvrite Toetamise Ühing "Ohvriabi") in 1994.⁷⁹ It is still the only organisation that provides support to victims of crime in general, without specialisation to any type of victim group, although its activity is very limited now.⁸⁰ The decision to develop the system for victim support at the state level was made by the government in 1995.⁸¹ The task of developing and running the victim support system was given to the Ministry of Social Affairs (Sotsiaalministeerium). The government approved the victim support programme in 1998, and in the same year the pilot programme began in all the counties with the training of victim support workers.⁸² Also in 1998, the parliament (Riigikogu) approved the State Compensation of Victims of Crime Act (Kuriteoohvritele riikliku hüvitise maksmise seadus) – the first act allowing the payment of compensation to victims of crime.⁸³

3.1.2 Where did the money come from to support this first attempt?

Unfortunately Union of Support to Victims of Crime "Victim Support" did not respond to the request of information and therefore it is not possible to provide such information.

3.1.3 What were the circumstances leading to the establishment of the victim support service(s)?

Unfortunately Union of Support to Victims of Crime "Victim Support" did not respond to the request of information and therefore it is not possible to provide such information. It can only be assumed that since there was no state victim support system established, there was a gap in a society, which the social workers of the local authority could not fulfil.

3.1.4 Quality standards

3.3 Services provided by the state:

From the below list, please answer 'yes' or 'no' if the following general services are provided directly by the state free of charge to victims and provide a short description – to be answered by all.

Services provided to victims by the state (free of charge)	Yes	No	Description
a Free legal advice by courts or free legal assistance	X		State legal aid is available. Initial legal advice is given by victims support officers. ⁸⁶
b Free health/psychological assistance (e.g. crisis intervention centres)	X		State provides compensation for psychological assistance.
c Emergency financial assistance		X	Financial assistance can be applied from the local municipality. ⁸⁷
d Court accompaniment/support services	X		Victim support officers can accompany the victim to court whenever necessary.
e Other (specify)	X		Victim support officers assist victims on administrative issues, counselling, if needed participate in the questioning of a minor.

3.4 (Failed) Attempts to establish national generic victim support service provider⁸⁸

Please describe whether there has ever been any attempt to establish a generic victim support service organisation in your country, specifying the year in which it was established and who attempted it (i.e. state or non-state actor). Why did it not succeed? If you cannot identify such an attempt, please explain the absence of the establishment of such an organisation (historical reasons etc.) and identify whether there is any discussion at government level/media etc. concerning the need to establish/improve services for victims.

Max 250 words

E.g. For example, in Latvia, the absence of victim support services during the soviet period may explain the slow realisation about the needs and rights of victims of crime. Moreover, since the restoration of independence in 1991 Latvia has neither had a strong women's movement nor victim support movement which may also explain lack of state funded support services for victims of domestic violence and other groups of adults, victims of violence.

Annex 2 –list of generic victim support organisations by country

In accordance with question 2.2.1a, please review the list and short description of structure of generic victim support organisations operational in your country and edit as necessary, ensuring that all significant victim support providers (especially those operating at national level) are mentioned.

Countries shaded in green have been identified (on the basis of country reports submitted for phases 1 & 2 of the project) as not having any generic victim support organisations. These countries should please provide a short list of the main organisation(s) providing victim support in one of the two specialised areas of victim support focused on in the phase 2 country report (see annex 3 for a list). As a default, please select the area ‘Domestic violence and stalking’.

AT	In every of Austria’s nine provinces (Bundesländer), branches of national organisations and local victim support organisations are operative. Weisser Ring (NGO) is currently the largest general victim support organisation operating in Austria. Today, the White Ring operates out of a federal office in Vienna and nine branches in all Austrian provinces, as well as 14 representation offices at regional level.
BE	Bureaux d’assistance aux victimes; Victim’s reception service in each of the 27 judicial districts and at the community level, assistance to victims is organized through Centres for Victims of Crime;
BG
CY	The Social Welfare Services which is the only umbrella service providing support to various victim “groups”, the rest of the initiatives are targeted on specific victim “groups” and are under the non-governmental sector. However, the services provided by the SWS are targeted mainly towards victims of domestic violence and victims of trafficking.
CZ	The Probation and Mediation Service (“PMS”); the White Circle of Justice
DE	The largest volunteer victim support service (operating nationwide) is the Weisser Ring e.V. In Berlin, Hamburg, Lower Saxony, Saxony, Mecklenburg-Western Pomerania and Hesse independent victim support charities (Opferhilfe e.V) run local offices. A nationwide coverage of professional victim support services does not exist, although a number of the professional support services are organised under the auspices of the umbrella organisation Working Group of Victim Support in Germany ‘ado’. In many states (Bavaria, Baden-Württemberg, Bremen, Saarland, Rhineland-Palatinate, Saxony-Anhalt, Schleswig-Holstein and Thuringia) generic professional victim support services as described above do not maintain offices. Here volunteer support services fill this gap.
DK	The Victim Support in Denmark (VID) (Offerrådgivningen, OID). The general victim support service in Denmark consists of 33 different general local entities with VID as their umbrella organisation.
EE	The state-run victim support services by the Social Insurance Board provides generic services. It provides services such basic legal and social counselling, crime compensation, compensation of psychological assistance and other services. The citizen-initiated Union of Support to Victims of Crime “Victim Support” (Kuriteoohvrite Toetamise Ühing “Ohvriabi”), founded in 1994, is still the only organisation that provides support to victims of crime in general, without specialisation to any type of victim group. However, due to lack of funding they have cut back on their services considerably.
EL

ES	The management of the Offices for Support to Victims of Crimes (Oficinas de Asistencia a las Víctimas de Delitos, OAV) is the responsibility of regional governments having the Spanish government used the ability to "set up management agreements entrusted with the Autonomous Communities and local Corporations". In Spain, these are the only victim support services that can be considered to have a generic character because of dealing with many sorts of victims particularly since this very year.
FI	In 1994, Victim Support Finland (Rikosuhrapäivystys / Brottsofferjouren) began its activities. It was the first organisation to offer victim support services and still is the only organisation providing services to victims of various different types of crimes, as most other third sector actors specialise in providing assistance to certain specific victim groups.
FR	The National Institute for Victims and Mediation (L'Institut national d'aide aux victimes et de médiation, INAVEM) was established in 1986 to promote greater coherence and activity for victim support services. Since June 2004, the INAVEM has had the status of federation, representing member associations (www.inavem.org.). Services for victims (services d'aide aux victimes, SAV) are members of the INAVEM. 150 associations are adherents to the INAVEM and provide psychological, logistic, financial and legal support to victims .
HR	County Court level: There are special departments for victim and witness support (Odjeli za organiziranje i pružanje podrške svjedocima i žrtvama), established at the following seven county courts as part of the court administration: Zagreb, Split, Rijeka, Osijek, Zadar, Vukovar, Sisak. Special departments provide victim and witness support in trials for all criminal offences.
HU	Metropolitan and county offices of the Victim Support Service. There are also a few NGOs that operate in the field of victim support. The White Ring Association is specialised in assisting victims of any crime and it provides similar services as the state agency, however the scope of its activities is rather limited due to financial burdens
