Additional Information

Formerly, I was Professor in European Law and European Integration and Co-director of the Institute for the Study of Law, Economy and Global Governance at the University of Manchester (2005-2011), where I spent twelve years. I held a Jean Monnet Chair in European Law there, having previously been a Jean Monnet post-holder at the University of East Anglia, United Kingdom. My background and work are interdisciplinary (Law and Politics) and throughout my career I have defended the principles of equal human dignity, non-discrimination and inclusion. I have authored Citizenship, Identity and Immigration in the European Union: Between Past and Future (2001), The Future Governance of Citizenship (2008), Institutional Constructivism in Social Sciences and Law (2018) and co-edited A Redefinition of Belonging?

Language and Integration Tests in Europe (2010), The Reconceptualisation of European Union Citizenship (2014), The Human Face of the European Union (2016).
